The organization has improved the capacities of staff to work with visually Handicapped Children. Since Visually challenged students are pupils who have impairment in learning and these students are to be provided with special care that can suit their special education needs. “Education must aim at giving the blind child a knowledge of the realities around him, the confidence to cope with these realities, and the feeling that he is recognized and accepted as an individual in his own right.” - Berthold Lowenfeld

“Special education is a form of education provided for those who are not achieving, or are not likely to achieve through ordinary educational provisions, the level of educational, social and other attainments appropriate to their age, and which has the aim of furthering their progress towards these levels”. In the last years, the project have undergone various phases of learning, significant expansion, scale-up of facilities and thrust on quality to ensure coverage saturation of relevant sub-populations with the appropriate programmers and interventions.

Almost all this region of the state experienced foreseen circumstance regarding the issue of separate statehood, which could affect the project implementations, but the organization took extra measures to overcome the situation. As a result, we could successfully achieve objectives under the components of the intervention during the reporting period.

Progress of the Intervention Component wise

The entire process has certain constraints such as illiteracy, ignorance of projects, lack of interest, low participation levels, first timers in CBO committees. To address these, organization is providing periodic orientation and training programs.
